“WE HAIL THEE, CAROLINA”

(Tune: Flow Gently, Sweet Afton)

We hail thee, Carolina, and sing thy high praise;
With loyal devotion, rememb'ring the days,
When proudly we sought thee, thy children to be;
Here's a health, Carolina, forever to thee!

Today's Ceremony

Welcome to the University of South Carolina on this day of special recognition of our candidates for graduation. We hope you will find these ceremonies — a culmination of the efforts of the faculty, administration, our students and their families — both meaningful and impressive.

Commencement exercises for candidates for associate, baccalaureate, master's and specialist's degrees and certificates of graduate study are being held in four ceremonies on consecutive days. The Order of Exercises for the Friday morning ceremony is found on pages 3-4 and the listing of candidates for degrees on pages 35-45 of this program. The Order of Exercises for the Friday afternoon ceremony is found on pages 5-6 and the listing of candidates for degrees on pages 46-57 of this program. The Order of Exercises for the Saturday morning ceremony is found on pages 7-8 and the listing of candidates for degrees for this ceremony on pages 58-68 of this program. The Order of Exercises for the Saturday afternoon ceremony is found on pages 9-10 and the listing of candidates for degrees for this ceremony on pages 69-80. Separate ceremonies are being held for candidates of the School of Law and the School of Medicine and for candidates for doctoral degrees.

While awaiting the start of the ceremonies, you may wish to read the historical note on South Carolina's oldest university on the following pages. There follows a brief description of the Carolina Mace, symbol of the university's immortal dignity and of the combined endeavors of the university community, as well as a detailed description of the academic costumes worn by members of the processions and our candidates for graduation.

The exercises will begin with a series of academic processions. They are headed by the university mace party, followed by representatives of the university faculty, university officials and guests, university deans, members of the university Board of Trustees and distinguished guests, and the university president.

As the ceremonies close following the awarding of all degrees, the audience is asked to rise for the singing of the alma mater, after which the platform party will recess. The words of the song were penned by Professor G.A. Wauchope of the English department in 1911 and were adopted in 1912. The tune is that of "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton." The phrase "Here's a health, Carolina!" is repeated in Carolina's alma mater. Over the years, the custom has arisen of raising the right hand, with the fingers cupped, when the phrase, "Here's a health, Carolina!" occurs, as if offering a toast. The alma mater is always sung with heads uncovered.

Thank you for joining us for the commencement ceremony. Congratulations to the Class of 2025 — the newest alumni of the University of South Carolina.

CAROLINA — A HISTORICAL NOTE

“FAITHFUL INDEX TO THE AMBITIONS AND FORTUNES OF THE STATE”

The Palmetto State established South Carolina College on December 19, 1801, as part of an effort to unite South Carolinians in the wake of the American Revolution, promoting “the good order and harmony” of the state. The founding of South Carolina’s state college was also part of the Southern public college movement spurred by Thomas Jefferson. Within 20 years of one another, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia established state-supported colleges.

In the antebellum era, the Palmetto State generously supported South Carolina College. Its faculty included noted European scholars, such as Francis Lieber and Thomas Cooper, as well as renowned American scholars John and Joseph LeConte. Offering a classical curriculum, South Carolina College became one of the South’s most influential colleges, earning a reputation as the training ground for South Carolina’s antebellum elite.

South Carolina’s secession from the Union unleashed the devastation of the American Civil War, and the state and South Carolina College paid dearly. The institution closed for want of students, and in the ensuing decades, it struggled to regain its former status.

As Reconstruction from the Civil War proceeded, the state’s General Assembly chose the first African Americans to serve on the university’s Board of Trustees in 1868, and in 1873 the first Black students enrolled. While politically controversial, this development was an extraordinary opportunity at a time when opportunities for higher education were rare. The University of South Carolina became the only Southern state university to admit and grant degrees to African American students during the Reconstruction era.

Following the end of Reconstruction in 1877, South Carolina’s conservative leaders closed the university. They reopened it in 1880 as an all-white agricultural college, and during the next 25 years, the institution became enmeshed in the state’s political upheaval. South Carolina went through several reorganizations in which the curriculum changed and its status shifted from college to university and back again. The university also struggled to adjust to the arrival of intercollegiate athletics in 1892 and the admission of white women in 1894.

In 1906, the institution was rechartered for the final time as the University of South Carolina. In 1917, it became South Carolina’s first state-supported college or university to earn regional accreditation, and the 1920s brought the introduction of new colleges and degree programs, including the doctorate.

The Great Depression temporarily stalled progress, but the outbreak of World War II launched an era that transformed the university. South Carolina hosted naval training programs during the war, and enrollment more than doubled in the postwar era as veterans took advantage of the G.I. Bill. In the 1950s, the university began recruiting national-caliber faculty members and expanded its footprint with the establishment of campuses across South Carolina.

In 1963, the University of South Carolina became desegregated. As the result of a federal court order, Henrie D. Monteith, Robert Anderson and James Solomon became the first Black students to enroll at the university in the 20th century. Minority enrollment would continue to grow in their wake and was complemented by a substantial international student population in subsequent decades.

At the same time, the university was undergoing explosive growth as the baby-boom generation entered college. Enrollment stood at 5,660 in 1960 but nearly quadrupled 20 years later. That increase in the student body was accompanied by the introduction of many new programs, including three that would prove to be momentous.

University 101 became a national model for cultivating freshman-year success; the accompanying National Resource Center for the First-Year Experience and Students in Transition is based at the university. The international Master of Business Administration program, also launched in the 1970s, has consistently ranked among the country’s top three such programs. The honors program blossomed into the South Carolina Honors College and is hailed among the nation’s finest.

As the result of concerted efforts to expand its research capabilities, the university in 2006 was designated by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching as a research institution of “very high research activity,” the foundation’s highest classification. The university is one of a select number of public universities to receive both the Carnegie Foundation’s top-tier research designation and community engagement designation.

South Carolina’s Bicentennial Campaign helped usher in the 21st century as the university celebrated a 200-year legacy of educating leaders for the state, the nation and the world. In recent years, the University of South Carolina system has launched an online degree-completion program through Palmetto College. Together with the college’s four campuses across the state, the online program offers students greater flexibility to complete coursework and speeds bachelor’s degree completion. These comprehensive programs have helped the university secure its place as a first-choice destination for students seeking the lifelong value of a quality higher education experience.

UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH CAROLINA ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Founded in 1846, the University of South Carolina Alumni Association connects students and alumni to advance their careers, their passions and this great university that we call home.

Commencement is the most exciting time of the year as we welcome thousands of Gamecocks to the ever-growing alumni family. We have a network of more than 40 global alumni clubs that are eager to connect you to life as an alumnus, no matter where your career may lead. Our affinity groups, such as the Black Alumni and Veterans Alumni Councils, can help you connect with Gamecocks who have shared experiences.

We want new graduates to stay connected to our programs and the hundreds of events we host each year.

Membership with the association is what makes these connections possible. Without the support of our members, we could not facilitate a global network of alumni clubs or award hundreds of student scholarships each year.

As a new graduate, you have access to a limited-time discount on a life membership and personalized Horse-shoe brick bundle. Beyond helping us create a stronger Gamecock family, you'll also receive great benefits like access to Career Services, Thomas Cooper Library and hundreds of discounts.

You are a student for a short time but a Gamecock for a lifetime. Join the USC Alumni Association today and stay connected for life — uofscalumni.org/newgradlife.

THE CAROLINIAN CREED

The community of scholars at the University of South Carolina is dedicated to personal and academic excellence. Choosing to join the community obligates each member to a code of civilized behavior.

Allegiance to these ideals requires each Carolinian to refrain from and discourage behaviors which threaten the freedom and respect every individual deserves.

As a Carolinian...

I will practice
personal and academic integrity;

I will respect
the dignity of all persons;

I will respect
the rights and property of others;

I will discourage bigotry, while striving to learn from differences in people, ideas, and opinions;

I will demonstrate concern for others, their feelings, and their need for conditions which support their work and development.

ACADEMIC COSTUMES

The academic costumes worn in today's procession and at other formal university occasions trace their origins to those worn by faculty members and students at medieval European universities. With only minor modifications, these costumes have remained largely unchanged since the 16th century. Standards for colleges and universities in the United States were established in 1895 with the adoption of an intercollegiate code that specifies design and color appropriate for various degrees. As in medieval times, the costumes worn on formal academic occasions denote the wearer's academic heritage.

The modern academic costume consists of three parts: the gown or robe, a headpiece and a hood. The gown denotes the wearer's level of education.

The baccalaureate gown is the simplest in design. Usually black, it is distinguished by a wide yoke with shirring in front and back and by open, flowing sleeves that end in a point. The baccalaureate gown is worn closed.

The master's gown is similar to the baccalaureate gown except that it has a closed or glove sleeve that is open at the wrist. The master's gown has no other trim and may be worn either open or closed.

The doctoral gown is full-flowing and has large, bell-shaped sleeves. It is trimmed with velvet panels down the front and has velvet bars on the sleeves. While black is still the predominant color for doctoral gowns, the trim may be in a color that denotes the wearer's discipline, or the color of the gown may denote the wearer's university. The University of South Carolina's doctoral gown is garnet with black velvet panels and bars. The university seal is embroidered on the panels. In today's procession, this gown is worn by the members of the Board of Trustees and university officers, chancellors, deans, faculty members and administrators.

The mortar board is the headpiece most often worn at American universities for formal occasions. It is appropriately worn with the board flat on the top of the head and with the tassel falling from the left quarter of the board. Tassel colors denote the field or discipline in which the wearer's degree was earned. Doctoral tassels are often gold. The soft velvet Tudor cap is also worn by many who hold the doctorate.

While the gown and headpiece denote the wearer's level of education, it is the hood that adds meaning and dimension to the academic costume. Changed little since medieval times, the hood is worn falling from the shoulders, down the back of the gown in a display of vivid color. It is edged in velvet, which by its color denotes the field or discipline in which the wearer's degree was earned, and it is lined in two colors of silk that represent the college or university from which the degree was earned. Hence, the University of South Carolina hood is lined in garnet and black and edged with the appropriate discipline color.

The USC president's ceremonial gown is black with four garnet velvet bars on the sleeves and garnet velvet panels down the front, all trimmed with antique-gold cording. The university seal is embroidered on the panels. Presidents are the only academics entitled to wear the fourth bar on their sleeves. The president's regalia is completed by a black velvet doctoral tam with an antique-gold tassel. The ceremonial hood is edged in garnet velvet and lined with garnet-and-black silk, representative of the University of South Carolina.

A partial listing from the Intercollegiate Code for colors signifying disciplines follows:

Arts, Letters, Humanities: white
Accountancy, Business, Commerce: drab
Education: light blue
Engineering: orange
Fine Arts: brown
Journalism: crimson
Law: purple
Library Science: lemon
Medicine: green
Music: pink
Nursing: apricot
Pharmacy: olive green
Philosophy: dark blue
Physical Education: sage green
Physical Therapy: teal
Public Health: salmon pink
Public Service: peacock blue
Science: golden yellow
Social Science: cream
Social Work: citron

THE UNIVERSITY MACE AND PRESIDENT'S MEDALLION

The University Mace was designed and fashioned by Leslie Durbin, distinguished silversmith of London, England. Academic maces are historically regarded as manifestations of the “immortal dignity” of universities and thus represent the past, present and future. Officially adopted in 1967, the mace was presented to the university as a memorial to Susan Richardson Guignard by an alumnus, Dr. George Curry.

The brilliantly gleaming silver-and-gilt mace is nearly four feet long. Mounted on the head are the seal of the university, the seal of the State of South Carolina and the Great Seal of the United States. From the middle of these arises a stylistic representation of the State Tree, the palmetto, the fronds of which are formed by a group of 13 stars representing the founding colonies, which include South Carolina. The shaft is decorated with eight stars, reminding us that South Carolina was the eighth state to enter the Union.

The University Mace is carried in procession on occasions of outstanding importance, such as commencements, convocations and formal dedications. The placement of the mace on its stand signals that the proceedings are about to come to order; its retirement indicates the conclusion of the exercises. The mace is carried in procession by the president of Student Government and escorted by the university chaplain and representatives of the faculty, emeriti, alumni, the Board of Trustees and the university community at large.

The significance of the mace is mirrored in the Presidential Medallion and Chain of Office, which designate the wearer as the temporary embodiment of the institution's power and authority. The gift of the medallion accompanied the gift of the mace, and the linked silver Chain of Office was commissioned in 1991 by the Presidential Candidate Search Committee.

GONFALONS

The University of South Carolina's spring 2012 commencement ceremonies marked the inaugural presentation of gonfalons as part of the academic ceremonies. Gonfalons are heraldic flags or banners that were first used by Italian medieval cities to display coats of arms or other insignia. In modern times, the colorful banners have been adopted by many universities around the world as part of the pageantry of commencement.

The University of South Carolina has 23 gonfalons, one for each of the institution's eight campuses and for each of the 15 degree-granting colleges and schools on the Columbia campus. The Intercollegiate Code defines the traditional discipline colors for each college or school. Gonfalons for each regional Palmetto College campus and comprehensive university are inspired by the colors of each campus.

CITATION FOR THE HONORARY DEGREE OF DOCTOR OF PUBLIC SERVICE

LINDELL A. BRADLEY

Lindell A. Bradley made history as the first Black varsity student-athlete at the University of South Carolina, then built a successful career as an engineer and executive manager at ExxonMobil Corporation. He was born in Hartsville, South Carolina, where he graduated from Butler High School, and earned a civil engineering degree from USC in 1972.

During his senior year at Butler, Mr. Bradley caught the eye of a Major League scout while helping his baseball team win a state championship. But, guided by his parents and his desire to earn a college degree, he turned the opportunity into a tryout at USC.

He played on South Carolina's freshman baseball team in 1967-68 and varsity squad the following year, cementing his status as the university's first Black varsity student-athlete; however, that fact went unnoted for decades. His role in Gamecock history came to light and was celebrated during a USC baseball alumni weekend in April 2024.

Mr. Bradley did not set out to break a race barrier at USC. "He came because he wanted to play baseball, and he wanted to get an education," former teammate Ronnie Fulmer said.

Mr. Bradley's time in college was not without challenges. But, by all accounts, he handled those situations with grace and wisdom. "What stands out to me was that he had such class," Tommy Jones, another former teammate, said.

By his third year, the challenge of reconciling his class and practice schedules proved difficult to overcome. Mr. Bradley excelled in the classroom and was determined to complete his degree, so he left the team. USC's civil engineering department offered him a work-study assignment to make up for the loss of his baseball scholarship.

Immediately after graduation, Mr. Bradley took a position as a project engineer with Mobil Oil Corporation (later known as ExxonMobil, after a 1999 merger). That began a robust 35-year career that took him to more than 60 countries and culminated in an executive management-level position.

At ExxonMobil, Mr. Bradley began an environmental organization that is still in operation and established BEST (Black Employee Success Team), a mentoring program for minority engineers, which grew to include all minority professionals. He was a member of the Society of Civil Engineers and the American Petroleum Institute. He engaged in community service with the National Urban League and Alpha Phi Alpha in the Washington, D.C., area and was an inaugural member of the Black Engineer of the Year Award and Recognition Program in Baltimore.

Since retiring in 2008, Mr. Bradley has remained active in community service, supporting the Distinguished Student Program in Maryland, Virginia, and D.C. high schools and participating in the Brunswick County (NC) High School Mentoring Program and the First Tee of Coastal Carolinas program, which established a scholarship in his honor. He is an active member of Seaside United Methodist Church in Sunset Beach, North Carolina, and a board member of the North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church.

Mr. Bradley met his wife, Linda, while they were both students at USC. They have three children and six grandchildren.

For his groundbreaking role as the university's first Black varsity student-athlete; for his stellar 35-year career as an engineer and executive manager; and for his commitment to being a leader and mentor to minority engineers and to giving back to his community; the University of South Carolina, with the approval of its Board of Trustees, now presents Lindell A. Bradley for the honorary degree of Doctor of Public Service.

MARGARET M. SPELLINGS

The Honorable Margaret M. Spellings, former U.S. Secretary of Education, was raised in Houston, Texas, and earned a political science degree from the University of Houston. She began her career working in education reform with the Texas legislature and the Texas Association of School Boards. She also served as senior advisor to then-Governor George W. Bush.

When Governor Bush was elected president of the United States in 2000, Ms. Spellings served as the White House Chief Domestic Policy Advisor. Her achievements include oversight of the development of the U.S. President's Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief, the development of a comprehensive immigration plan to ensure long-term economic stability and secure U.S. borders and numerous initiatives on health and human services, transportation, labor, justice and housing.

From 2005 to 2009, Ms. Spellings served as U.S. Secretary of Education, leading the implementation of the No Child Left Behind Act, a bipartisan initiative to provide greater accountability for the education of 50 million U.S. public school students. As secretary, she also launched the Commission on the Future of Higher Education, a plan to address challenges of access, affordability, quality, and accountability in our nation's colleges and universities.

Following her tenure as education secretary, Ms. Spellings founded an education consulting firm in Washington, D.C., and served in a leadership role with the National Chamber Foundation, the nonprofit arm of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. From 2013 to 2016, she served as president of the George W. Bush Presidential Center, overseeing programs on economic opportunity, education reform and global health, as well as initiatives on women's leadership and military service. Her work included the 2014 launch of the one-of-a-kind Presidential Leadership Scholars Program, born of the first-ever partnership of multiple presidential centers.

In 2015, Ms. Spellings was elected president of the University of North Carolina System, overseeing its 17 institutions. She worked with the state's General Assembly and UNC's Board of Governors to improve graduation rates, reduce achievement gaps and ensure access for students of every background. She completed her tenure as president in 2019, the same year she became president and CEO of Texas 2036, a nonpartisan public policy think tank addressing the most pressing issues facing Texans.

In 2021, Ms. Spellings cofounded the Future of Tech Commission, a bipartisan working group of civic leaders focused on developing an inclusive tech policy agenda for the nation.

Ms. Spellings is president and CEO of the Bipartisan Policy Center, a nonprofit that assists policymakers in crafting bipartisan solutions.

For her longstanding commitment to public service at state and national levels; for her focus on educational equality and access; and for her continued service in support of the ideals of political bipartisanship; the University of South Carolina, with the approval of its Board of Trustees, now presents Margaret M. Spellings for the honorary degree of Doctor of Public Service.

DREW GILPIN FAUST

Drew Gilpin Faust, a noted American historian and former president of Harvard University, was born in New York City and raised in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia. She graduated from Concord Academy, a boarding school in Massachusetts, and earned a bachelor's degree in history with high honors from Bryn Mawr College in 1968. She then earned master's and doctoral degrees from the University of Pennsylvania.

Because her postgraduate research focus was the American South in the antebellum era, Dr. Faust began traveling to USC in 1973 to visit the South Caroliniana Library, which is widely considered to be one of country's best repositories for Southern history. Over the course of her long career, Dr. Faust continued to visit the South Caroliniana Library dozens of times to conduct research on Southern history. She was the keynote speaker in 2009 at the annual meeting of the University South Caroliniana Society, a support organization for this special collections library.

Dr. Faust joined the faculty of the University of Pennsylvania in 1975, the same year she received her Ph.D., as an assistant professor of American civilization. She later was named the Walter Annenberg Professor of History at that institution. In 2001, she was named dean of the Radcliffe Institute for Advanced Study at Harvard University and became Harvard's president in 2007, the first woman to serve in that capacity at Harvard. Dr. Faust led the university for 11 years, retiring in 2018.

During her extraordinary academic career, Dr. Faust has written seven books, including Mothers of Invention: Women of the Slaveholding South in the American Civil War; James Henry Hammond, Governor of South Carolina from 1842 to 1844; and This Republic of Suffering, which explored the American Civil War's high death toll and was a finalist for the Pulitzer Prize and National Book Award.

Among her many honors and awards, Dr. Faust has been included several times in the Forbes list of "100 Most Powerful Women" and was elected to the Society of American Historians in 1993, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in 1994, and the American Philosophical Society in 2004. She was the recipient in 2018 of the John W. Kluge Prize, given by the Library of Congress. In 2024, she was the recipient of the Newberry Library Award for her contributions to the humanities.

She is married to Charles E. Rosenberg, a historian of medicine.

For her important and lasting contributions to the study of antebellum Southern history; for her extraordinary leadership at America's oldest university; and for her commitment to the ideals of higher education and its role in American democracy; the University of South Carolina, with the approval of its Board of Trustees, now presents Drew Gilpin Faust for the honorary degree of Doctor of Education.

Honors and Awards 2025

The University salutes its graduating class of 2025 and, relying on the support and loyalty of these new alumni, views the future with hope and confidence. Carolina also cherishes those whose past devotion to its interests has stood the test of time and whose service has helped create an institution in which today's graduates, their parents and sponsors, and the State of South Carolina can take pride.

Accordingly the following members of the faculty and student body receive a certificate of appreciation recognizing their achievement and service as follows:

Degrees in Course

Friday Morning Ceremony

The following list of candidates for graduation was prepared before final grades were reported and inclusion herein does not constitute evidence of graduation. The listing of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person will in fact receive a degree from the University of South Carolina at this commencement. Conversely, the absence of a student's name from this list does not necessarily mean that the person will not be awarded a degree. Honors for degree candidates are based on the institutional grade point average and earned hours at the time in which this program was published.

Honors printed on the diploma will be based on the final grade point average and earned hours on all institutional work. A dagger (†) following a candidate's name indicates Cum Laude. Two (††) and three daggers (†††) indicate Magna Cum Laude and Summa Cum Laude, respectively. A caret (^) following a candidate's name indicates the student is a veteran of the United States Armed Forces.

Degrees in Course

Friday Afternoon Ceremony

The following list of candidates for graduation was prepared before final grades were reported and inclusion herein does not constitute evidence of graduation. The listing of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person will in fact receive a degree from the University of South Carolina at this commencement. Conversely, the absence of a student's name from this list does not necessarily mean that the person will not be awarded a degree. Honors for degree candidates are based on the institutional grade point average and earned hours at the time in which this program was published.

Honors printed on the diploma will be based on the final grade point average and earned hours on all institutional work. A dagger (†) following a candidate's name indicates Cum Laude. Two (††) and three daggers (†††) indicate Magna Cum Laude and Summa Cum Laude, respectively. A caret (^) following a candidate's name indicates the student is a veteran of the United States Armed Forces.

Degrees in Course

Saturday Morning Ceremony

The following list of candidates for graduation was prepared before final grades were reported and inclusion herein does not constitute evidence of graduation. The listing of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person will in fact receive a degree from the University of South Carolina at this commencement. Conversely, the absence of a student's name from this list does not necessarily mean that the person will not be awarded a degree. Honors for degree candidates are based on the institutional grade point average and earned hours at the time in which this program was published.

Honors printed on the diploma will be based on the final grade point average and earned hours on all institutional work. A dagger (†) following a candidate's name indicates Cum Laude. Two (††) and three daggers (†††) indicate Magna Cum Laude and Summa Cum Laude, respectively. A caret (^) following a candidate's name indicates the student is a veteran of the United States Armed Forces. A lozenge (◊) following a candidate's name indicates the student is a dual degree BARSC and MD candidate.

Degrees in Course

Saturday Afternoon Ceremony

The following list of candidates for graduation was prepared before final grades were reported and inclusion herein does not constitute evidence of graduation. The listing of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person will in fact receive a degree from the University of South Carolina at this commencement. Conversely, the absence of a student's name from this list does not necessarily mean that the person will not be awarded a degree. Honors for degree candidates are based on the institutional grade point average and earned hours at the time in which this program was published.

Honors printed on the diploma will be based on the final grade point average and earned hours on all institutional work. A dagger (†) following a candidate's name indicates Cum Laude. Two (††) and three daggers (†††) indicate Magna Cum Laude and Summa Cum Laude, respectively. A caret (^) following a candidate's name indicates the student is a veteran of the United States Armed Forces.
